WORK ON BIG TOWER

Last of Three at Fort Myer Wireless Station.

WILL BE 600 FEET HIGH

Sending Range Probably Will Be 2,500 or 3,000 Miles.

DUPLEX SYSTEM IS PLANNED

May Allow of the Transmission of Two Messages at the Same Time.

Work has been commenced on the last of the three towers that will constitute he great wireless station of the Navy Department back of Fort Myer. This big tower that is now starting toward the sky will be 600 feet high, forty-five feet higher than the Washington Monument, and set on ground that is almost as high as the top of the Monument itself. A report was current in Washington this week that work had been suspended on the great station because the foundation under one of the towers had proved defective.

This caused a good deal of comment tion on Maundy Thursday at 11 a.m. and on Good Friday evening prayer and address by Canon De Vries at 4 p.m. in St. Alban's the Navy Department that there was nothing the matter with any of the towers, and the report of the defective foundation possibly came from the fact that when digging the foundation for the most northerly of the smaller towers a spring was struck that had to be diverted before the work could continue. The station, when completed, will consist of three towers and a generating plant. Two of the towers are only 450 feet high. When the three towers are completed the aerial will be spread in a great network between the tops. It will be not only the most powerful wireless station in the world, but the most spectacuiar from a layman's standpoint

Large Sending Range.

The sending range of a wireless staa.m., 12:35, until Good Friday; full service and sermon Good Friday at 10:30 a.m.; three hours' devotion, 12 to 3 p.m.; evening services. Wednesday and Friday at 8 p.m.; holy communion Maundy Thursday at 11:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. though they may pick up messages from it. It will be able to reach many warships in the Atlantic that cannot reply to its messages for lack of range. It is intended now to put a station of similar power half way across the conthird on the Pacific coast. In this way it will be possible to keep the Navy Department in touch with American warships almost anywhere. The Navy Department is now working on a duplex system of transmission that will enable two messages to be sent simultaneously from the station. This achievement is well in sight. It is Special Dispatch to The Star. possible that this may even be extended to multiplex.

Grounds to Be Parked.

The grounds of the wireless station wil be parked and a commissioned officer, questions that is worrying the Navy Deare not of the best type and some of approaches to the station that are under county control will be improved and cared for by the county authorities.

Mine and mine rescue work, especially in regard to coal mining, was the subject of a free lecture at the Pastime Theater by E. P. Cowell of the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia today, in the educational series for school children. Stereoptican views illustrated his talk. The work of the newest devices in mine rescue work was shown and "first aid" work described. Pictures of old methods and modern methods of working were included in the exhibits, as were photographs of the coal mines of Pennsylvania, oil wells, iron mines and gold mountains among which metals are
